Genghis Khan: The Exhibition

By Jess Paniszczyn

Genghis Khan united the Mongolian tribes and set off to conquer the world. With his finest, most efficient cavalry ever assembled, Genghis Khan struck fear in the hearts of people of Europe and Asia. Even today their propaganda warnings, which spread like wildfire to their neighbors, and were passed down to their children and grandchildren, resound in our society whenever anyone refers to Genghis Khan the Barbarian.

As a massive undertaking, the Irving Arts Center and Exhibitions have worked together to present Genghis Khan: The Exhibition to north Texas. One of the largest collections of upon artifacts has been brought together to tell the story of Genghis Khan, his conquests, and his contributions to modern society.

“We are doing something that is a whole lot bigger than anything we have ever tried before,” said Richard Huff, Executive Director of the Irving Arts Center. “This is a world class exhibition. It came to us from Shanghai. From here it will go to the Carolinas, Chicago, and then next year it goes to Europe. And the Mongolian people do not consider Genghis Khan a single individual but a family. It See GENGHIS KHAN, Page 5

Fellows honored in Memorial Day celebration

By John Moffett

Fallen veterans honored in Memorial Day celebration. I’ve always been a firm believer in Memorial Day celebrations. It seems like it doesn’t have the same meaning as it used to. As the event’s guest speaker, I arrived in Vietnam a few years after the Vietnam War. Many veterans have widely differing experiences in war. I’ve always wondered what was called ‘US friendly fire.’ As for me, it was on the middle of nowhere. There would be 100 dead Marines. I sometimes think, maybe they will try to do something about it. I was in two wars and lost friends. Moffett said. “The kids who came today might not believe how many people have died in the war. Maybe they’ll try to do something for the country too.”

Three of us jumped into the rice patty, our Huey landed to the left. The standard practice while we were landing was to have a Huey in machine-gun the forest on either side. "At one time jumped into the rice patty and headed for the trees. Almost immediately, we heard the machine gun fire coming in our direction. We fell down in the rice patty. I looked to my right, across my buddies. There was a fiery-staring middle of the rice patty. I could see the bullets striking the water, and they were headed directly towards the trees. I realized that because of the heat, we couldn’t move or get out of the way. As I saw the bullets getting close, I remembered thinking. This is going to hurt.”

When the splashing bullets were about to hit me first, the fire, the firing stopped, and the Huey landed right in my. I could not imagine the horror we realized we were Americans at the last minute.

“I think God then saw and no one in my company was hurt by friendly fire. Sometimes danger comes from unexpected places. I’m not sure how much the Vietnamese knew. A Middle Eastern New York Times journalist. Several members of the Marching Band of MacArthur High School under the direction of Mr. John Carpenter Freeway. We jumped on the back. The very frightened music was for the ceremony. The Middle Valley Memorial Day is a day when school lets out, always. It is if we can pay for service like this, it is a chance to let them know there is reason why school is out.

As soon as we arrived to the camp, I knew it was a great performance opportunity that dovetailed with a great educational opportunity. Our just hard missions did not even exist before they arrived and certainly during the course of the event that was about honoring the people who have fallen. This was about honoring the meaning of their lives. That is a fact that there are so many people who love American music and love education in good taste.”

Mayor Herbert Gears: Working together. Forward together.

Six years ago, life in Irving wasn’t what it should be.

Crime kept people locked behind closed doors. Slumlords and their blighted properties defined residential life.

Then Herbert Gears became our mayor. The community came together and with his leadership, Irving is a much better place than it was before Mayor Gears took office.

Crime is down. Taxes are low. More services for critical needs like health care are available.

It is critical that we continue to keep moving forward as a community with a leader like Mayor Herbert Gears!
